HOW TO MEASURE FOR SHADES.

FOR INSTRUCTIONS
SEE

HOW TO MEASURE FOR SHADES.

---

ALL measurements for the width should be made from point to point on each side of casing where brackets are to be placed.

All measurements for the length of shade should be the net measurement from top to bottom of window.

We will make the necessary allowances in width for the satisfactory working of shade, and in length for the hem and turn upon roller when shade is drawn down full length.

When shades are to be hung, as illustrated in Fig. 1, on the outside or surface of casing facing the room, give exact distance from points as designated by A to B, being extreme distance from point to point where brackets are to be placed, and for length of shade the distance from C to D and state in ordering, "outside bracket measure."

The shades when finished will be from 1 to  $1\frac{1}{2}$  inches narrower than your measurement, and contain 6 inches more of cloth.

When shades are to be hung, as illustrated in Fig. 2, on the inside or surface of the casing which face each other, give the distance from E to F, the exact distance from jamb to jamb of window at points where brackets will be fastened, and for length the distance from G to H, and state in ordering, "inside bracket measure."

Measurements for shades hung in this manner should be very accurate, even to a sixteenth of an inch.

Measure each window separately.

State whether shades are to roll from top or bottom of window. In the former the roller is fastened at the top, and in the latter case at the bottom of window.

In hanging shades observe carefully the printed instructions on each roller regarding the proper adjustment of the spring.
